DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.—A Substitute for Calomel.—These Pills are composed of various roots, having the power to relax the secretions of the liver as promptly and effectually as blue pill or mercury, and without producing any of those disagreeable or dangerous effects which often follow the use of the latter.

In all bilious disorders these Pills may be used with confidence, as they promote the discharge of vitiated bile, and remove those obstructions from the liver and biliary ducts which are the cause of bilious affections in general.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills cure Sick Headache, and all disorders of the Liver, indicated by sallow skin, coated tongue, costiveness, drowsiness, and a general feeling of weariness and lassitude, showing that the liver is in a torpid or obstructed condition.

In short, these Pills may be used with advantage in all cases when a purgative or alterative medicine is required.

Please ask for "Dr. Schenck's Mandrake Pills," and observe that the two likenesses of the Doctor are on the Government stamp—one when in the last stage of Consumption and the other in his present health.

WHAT EVERY ONE WANTS.—A good, reliable medicine that will be on hand when required, and never fails when called on. That is now to be obtained in Dr. Tobias' Celebrated Venitian Liniment. Many thousands call it the Wonder of the Age, as it does all that is represented and more. It cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Spasms, Vomiting, Croup, and Sea sickness as surely as it is used, and is perfectly innocent to take internally, even in double the quantity named in the directions; and as an external remedy for Chronic Rheumatism, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, Mumps, Toothache, Headache, Sore Throat, Sprains, Insect Stings, Pains in the Back, Chest, and Limbs, thousands have testified to, and their certificates can been seen by any one at the Doctor's Depot, 56 Cortlandt street, New York. Hundreds of Physicians use it in their practice. It has been introduced since 1847, and hundreds who now have it in their houses, say they would not be without it even if it was $10 per bottle. Every drop is mixed by Dr. Tobias himself, and can be depended on. Only 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by Druggists. Depot 56 Cortlandt St., New York. [Oct. 3-1m,

USE THE BEST.—Blades' Euphonial Lubricators are a medical preparation in the form of a Lozenge, and are universally considered the most pleasant, convenient and effectual remedy in use for Hoarseness, Coughs, Colds, Croups, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Diptheria, and all Pulmonary Complaints. They are WARRANTED to give quicker and more lasting benefit in the above affections than any other remedy. Also to contain no deleterious ingredient, and not to offend the weakest and most sensitive Stomach.

Blades' Constitution Pills are so called because of their peculiar effect upon the Liver, Stomach, Blood and Nervous System. For inactivity of the Liver, for the Stomach in derangement, or Dyspepsia, they will delight the patient with their mild and beneficial effect, especially if after long continued indigestion and costiveness, they are left with periodical returns of the Sick Headache. In case of a severe cold, producing Chills and Fever, you can break it very soon by using the Pills as per directions with each box. JOHN H. BLADES & CO.,

THE ECCENTRIC NABOB.

Some two or three miles from the little town of Aylesbury, England, there once lived three cousins, of the family named Barrett. They were all married and settled on farms, within a few miles of each other, and each of them had grown-up children around them. They were not rich, but in fair circumstances—each had expectations. An eccentric uncle had gone out to India when quite a young man, and rumor told them that he had become very wealthy, and would probably die a bachelor. Who, then, but themselves would be heirs to his property—they being, at the time, his nearest kin?

One day the three families were thrown into great commotion by each of them receiving a letter, which contained, beside date and signature, only these words:

"I am rich. Fools here call me a nabob. I wouldn't give such a title to a cat. No matter—I shan't live always—and when I die my property must go to somebody. I am coming to find an heir. I shall come and see you, and hope you will please me. I hope you are not troubled with beggars. I do not like to see them about."

One dark, rainy night, about three weeks after the reception of these letters by the cousins, the family of Moses Barrett was thrown into a great state of excitement by the appearance at the door of two men in livery, who announced themselves as the avaunt couriers of his excellency, Joshua Barrett, of India, who would claim their hospitality for the night. Saying which the messengers put spurs to the horses and dashed away, without giving the astonished listeners time to ask even a single question.

Now, Moses Barrett was a hunks, his wife shrewd, and his three children chips of the two blocks, but all undertook to change their natures for a time—or rather to be ready to change them on the appearance of the rich uncle—for what was the use of acting with the curtain down?

"Now Mose, you stingy old brute," said his wife, "if you know on which side your bread's buttered, it's to be hoped you'll have some chickens killed for his excellency's supper, which is more'n you did for Christmas, and some of that wine fetched up that you've had in the cellar since the year 1, and a fire made in the best room, that hasn't been there this ten years; and all our nice clothes put on—that ain't much—for you'd never allow us anything decent to wear."

"And it is to be hoped, old woman," replied the angry husband, "that you'll soften down that screeching voice of yours, and twist your wrinkles into smiles, and that'll be something I've never seen since the first week of our marriage."

Great activity was displayed by all in getting ready to give the rich uncle the best reception possible, and all rejoiced as much as a hopeful family could rejoice, that they would be the first to receive a visit from him—hoping, of course—that they might thus forestall the other relations in his good grace.

It would have been a strange way for any other person to have made his first visit; but then, they knew the uncle was very eccentric, and his being so very wealthy made it all right in their eyes. He might come and stand on his head, provided he paid for his antics.

In the midst of their hurried preparations, appeared at the door an old, feeble looking, white-haired man, thinly clad, and with his sordid garments clinging to his withered limbs, asking for food and shelter.

"Will you be kind enough, good people," he said, "to give me something to eat, and a place to sleep to-night?"

"We've got nothing to spare! and if we had, we don't harbor beggars!" replied the master of the house in a coarse, brutal tone.

"But I'm old, feeble and hungry, and wet and tired," said the aged applicant, in a pleading tone, "and if you drive me away, I may perish."

"Well that's what you ought to have done long ago," put in the cross old dame. "When people get too lazy to work for an honest living, and start out begging, it's my opinion they're better dead nor alive. Besides we expect company soon—a rich gentleman from India—and hain't got no room for the likes of you."

"Well, then," said the old man with a sorrowful look, "since you can't keep me over night, will you please give me something to eat and I'll go further."

The dame brought up a piece of brown bread with an angry look, and was about to hand it to the mendicant, more for the purpose, as it seemed, of getting rid of him, than from any feeling of compassion but her miserly husband interposed, and said sharply:

"I told you we hadn't anything for you, and so travel on!"

"I'll set the dogs on you, if you don't, you old beggar!" cried a lad of ten. "My rich uncle's coming here to-night, and he can't bear beggars; so you had better be going while your bones are whole!"

"May Heaven be more merciful than you," sighed the old man, as he turned and disappeared in the darkness.

Some half an hour later, he knocked at the door of Stephen Barrett—another of the nephews—and asked for food and lodging.

"It isn't convenient for us to keep you to-night," said the master of the house, in a mild, dignified tone. "Besides we don't like to encourage beggars. If you are poor and not able to work, the parish where you belong is bound to support you. No one need starve in this country which the Lord, praised be His name, has so bountifully blessed. I trust I am not wanting in charity—as an humble follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, I hope I am not—but what with taxes for the support of the government and the poor, donations to the benevolent societies and heathen missions, it is as much as I can do to live and give my family a respectable maintenance. Now, my friend, if you are poor, and not able to work (though I don't see why you may not work as well as travel,) you had better throw yourself on the parish where you belong."

"But I am tired, wet and hungry," said the old man, "and all the parishes in the world can't do me any good to-night."

"But you should have thought of that before you left home," now chimed in the good house-wife, with a sanctified air. "It is sinful to tempt Providence, as it is called; and whoever sins must expect punishment. I never leave home without providing for the journey, and, of course, I don't expect anybody to feed and shelter me for nothing. It is a sin, too, to be idle when a man is able to work, and it is against my principle, as a true Christian, to encourage any one in sinning."

"Then, I suppose I am to understand that you refuse me both food and lodging," said the old man.

"As for food," said the pious dame, glancing at her husband, "if you are hungry, I suppose we can do something for you in that way; but lodging is out of the question, for two mounted couriers have been sent here to say that a very rich uncle of ours from India will be here very soon; and he wrote some time ago that he didn't like to have beggars about where he was, and we would not like to offend him. True, we hardly expect him to-night, but then he might come, you know, and we wouldn't like to run any risks."

"Well, then," said the old man with a sigh, "I will take the food, if you please, and go on even if I perish.

"Put your trust in the Lord, my friend, put your trust in the Lord!" said Stephen Barrett, solemnly.

"Yes," echoed his wife, "put your trust in the Lord!—that is what we do when in trouble. Sarah Jane, go down in the cellar and bring up a couple of those cold potatoes for this old man. They are very good when one is hungry—I like them myself. Yes, put your trust in the Lord, and don't leave home again without means. By the way, while I think of it," added the good old woman, laying down a cap frill on which she had been at work while talking, and looking up with a bright twinkle in her eye, "I do believe you can get a good night's lodging at Harry Barrett's, who lives only half a mile from here, on the road south. He's a great hand for taking in strangers."

She looked at her husband, and both smiled knowingly, for both were thinking in case the rich uncle should find the beggar there, it might improve Stephen Barrett's chances of becoming the fortunate heir.

Sarah Jane now returned and handed the old man two little cold potatoes. He took them, turned them slowly over, examined them on all sides, and murmured:

"They have eyes—but can they see? I think not, for if they could they'd blush red instead of keeping such a dark color." Then, glancing slowly around the neat, tidy, cheerful room, taking in tossed the potatoes into the lap of the astonished mistress, saying as he did so:—"I beg your pardon, madam, but I did not intend to rob you."

"Oh, you sinful, wicked creature!" exclaimed the good dame, in holy horror, as the disgusted old man turned and went out and shut the door with a slam.

"Come in," said a strong, hearty, cheerful voice, in answer to his timid knock.

He entered a large, plainly furnished apartment, and beheld a group of six persons—father, mother, two sons and two daughters—seated around a pleasant fire, with a bright light on the table near them, and all looked contented and happy.

On seeing his visitor was an old man and a stranger the master of the house arose and invited him to walk forward and take a seat, and all the others drew back respectfully to enlarge the circle and give him the best place at the fire.

"I have called," said the old man, stopping and removing his hat from his white head, "to ask if you would be kind enough to give me some food and lodging for the night."

"Of course we will, my friend, and glad of the chance to help a fellow in need!" said Harry Barrett, in a frank, cordial tone. "Sit down and make yourself at home! Here, give me your hat! Come, girls, hurry up something warm for the old gentleman, who is wet, tired and chilled through, as I can readily see. You ought not to have been out so late in this storm, father."

"No, I know," replied the old gentleman, holding his trembling hands to the fire, "but the persons to whom I applied wouldn't take me in."

"What! refuse lodging to an old man like you on such a night, in this Christian community?" exclaimed the indignant host; "who were the inhospitable wretches?"

The man described the houses and the people upon whom he had called.

"I see," said the host with a grim smile; "I understand. The first family kicked you out."

"Almost."

"The second family prayed you out."

"Almost," again smilingly answered the stranger.

"Well, they are both relatives of mine, but I am ashamed to own them."

"They said by way of excuse," pursued the old man, "that they were expecting a rich uncle from India, who wouldn't like to see a beggar about."

"Aye, my friend, and we are expecting the same rich uncle, too—an eccentric old bachelor who says he wants to make one of us heir to his vast possessions. Two gaily mounted messengers arrived this evening to say he would be here to-night or to-morrow, probably the latter. But whenever he comes he will find us as we are, and if he don't like our looks, or the company we keep, he can take himself off again."

"Nay, my friend," said the aged stranger, rising in some trepedition, "do not, for the world, let my presence jeopardize your interests with your rich kinsman!—I will merely get something to eat, and travel on until I find another lodging."

"No, you won't," said Harry Barrett, bluntly. "You won't leave this house to-night for all the uncles that the Indies can turn out. Sit down again, sir, sit down and make yourself at home. I know the duty of a man who has his faith in God, and I am going to do it. What is his money to me? I can't eat it, nor drink it, nor wear it, nor carry it into the next world; and I'm sure it wouldn't bring me any happiness that I don't now enjoy, and I know it could never compensate me for one mean action. No! let Joshua Barrett settle his money as he chooses—I'll arrange my conscience to suit myself."

"God bless you," murmured the old man, in a trembling voice, and bowing his head upon his hands, he wept in silence.

He remained at that hospitable house during the night, and was entertained like an honored guest. The next day being fair, he took his leave, and as he was about to depart Harry Barrett put a crown into his hand, saying:

"Take it, my friend, and not a word. I don't know who you are, and I've not felt it my duty to inquire, but this I know, from your appearance, manner and language, that you are not a common beggar, and that you have seen better days, which I sincerely hope you may see again. It's as much as my circumstances will justify, and may, perhaps, serve to keep you from starving some night, or sleeping by the wayside."

"God will repay you," said the old man, solemnly, and he walked slowly away, wiping the tears from his eyes.

"He has already," mused Harry Barrett, placing his hand upon his heart. "I have it here—principal and interest."

Long, and in vain, did the selfish families of Moses and Stephen Barrett look for the appearance of their rich uncle from India in a carriage and four, and great was their disappointment and vexation thereat.

Then came the intelligence that he was sick in London. Next came the news that he was dead and had left a will.

What an intense desire to know the contents of that will! What a wild and furious excitement when its contents became known!

A Sabbath among the Monks of St. Bernard.

"Our readers have so frequently heard of the monks of St. Bernard, and their deeds of mercy, that we do not know that we can make our letter more entertaining than by devoting a portion of it to a description of a Sabbath spent among them. The Hospice of St. Bernard was founded as early as the tenth century by Bernard de Meurhop. The Brotherhood consists of from ten to fifteen Augustine monks, with some attendants, who receive and accomodate strangers without charge, but who especially render assistance to travelers during the heavy snows. We learned that, notwithstanding the Hospice had received numerous grants of land and property, it had experienced some difficulties. At one time it was possessed of eighty benefices, but now it holds but a limited portion of its original property. It now requires about ten thousand dollars for its annual support, and this sum is secured by subsidies from the French and Italian Goverments. There are, too, frequent contributions of parties who receive hospitalities from the institution, but we were informed that the amount thus derived was not at all commensurate with the number entertained.

"The monastery, which consists of two buildings and a morgue, is situated at the very summit of the pass of Great St. Bernard and a much frequented passage leading from Switzerland into Italy. The larger of the two buildings is a massive structure of rough cast, and is devoted to the entertainment of travelers. It contains also the chapel of the monastery. The other building is also used for the reception of poor travelers, and also as a place of refuge in case of fire, although, from the nature of the large building, it would seem that fire is an impossibility.

"Upon our arrival on Saturday night, after a walk of thirty miles, we entered the large Hall, and ringing the bell, were received and cordially welcomed by one of the fathers. He conducted us to the dining room and kindly invited us to partake of a most excellent supper, including good wine, the latter of which we partook of only 'for the stomach's sake,' as we have had occasion to remark before. After we had finished, and after spending an hour in pleasant conversation, we were shown our apartments, which consisted of accommodations for six persons, the number of the party. After a 'good night' from the father we retired to rest the weariness occasioned by a march in one day which required three days on the part of the great Napoleon to accomplish. At six o'clock in the morning we were awakened by the merry chime of the bells of the monastery, which awakened pleasant echoes at that Sabbath hour, when so far from home in the mountains. We breakfasted at eight o'clock, and at ten attended mass in the pretty chapel. The music, both vocal and instrumental, seemed very impressive, and the attendance of strangers and peasants comfortably filled the room. At twelve o'clock there was a most capital dinner served, including several courses, at which all the fathers, as well as the strangers, sat down. The food was substantial and well prepared. There seemed to be none of that reserve or conformality that ofttimes characterizes such occasions as these, but all seemed to manifest the suaviter in modo, and participated in general conversation to an eminent degree. There was a feeling on the part of every one that he was not an intruder but a welcome guest. Rev. Father Metroz, to whom we are under special obligations, assured us that they had entertained as many as a thousand persons at one time.

"In consequence of the cold, the large rooms are warmed during the entire year, and during our stay there, although upon an August day, we found not only a fire but even our overcoats quite comfortable.

"It is said that the monks, notwithstanding they may possess strong physiques at the time they enter the Hospice, yet, after a comparatively short time, they retire with ruined constitutions to other climates. It is, indeed, the highest winter habitation on the Alps.

"There is a library attached to the Hospice, containing a large collection of valuable works, as well as a large number of Roman coins and many relics, among them fragments of the brass tablets offered to Jupiter Penninus, after his escape from danger. We also noticed the portraits of many distinguished persons, among them the Napoleons, Washington and Lamartine. In the chapel is the monument
The bas relief represents Desaix as dying, supported by a soldier. When Desaix was bleeding and in the agonies of death, Napoleon, who loved him tenderly, because while he was his youngest he was one of the ablest officers, said to him: "You shall rest on the highest point of the Alps, and the mountains shall be your monument." A marble tablet in the chapel of St. Bernard commemorates him. Those who love gallantry everywhere remember him.

"How the deep-mouthed dogs, the heroic dogs, that saved the lives of so many, kept us awake by their barking in the long hours of the night, and how the crosses, erected on conspicuous places to guide the weary, snow-bound traveler, interested us, can only be mentioned and not written about. We left the Hospice with a feeling of gratitude to the good monks of St. Bernard, and went down to Italy with a prayer that inasmuch as they make glad the hearts of so many, that in the last their hearts may, too, be made glad."

Blessed are Paying Subscribers.

Blessed is the man who doth subscribe for his county paper and pay therefor. His feet shall not stand upon slippery places, he shall not be forsaken by his friends, nor persecuted by his enemies, nor shall his seed ever be seen begging bread.

Blessed is he that walketh to the office of the printer, yea, even ascendeth to the sanctum thereof, and purchaseth a year's subscription thereto. Selah!

He shall talk knowingly upon all subjects, and his neighbors shall be astonished at the muchness of his learning.

He shall not contract bad debts or lose good bargains.

He shall not pay an additional per cent. upon taxes, for his eyes shall behold the notice of the collector, and he will take warning thereby.

He shall bring his produce to market when the price is exceedingly good and withhold it when the price descendeth.

He shall live to a good old age, and when his dying hour is at hand his soul shall not be troubled as to its future state.

But it were better for him that doth refuse to subscribe for his county paper that he be bound hand and foot and cast upon a feather bed.

He shall have no rest either by day or by night, for visions of creditors shall dance upon his stomach by night, and their actual presence torment him by day.

If perchance he hath a moment's peace it is only that he may have a little rest ere the memory of an evil life lacerates his mind as a goad pricks the side of the ox, and his punishment may be drawn out.

His children shall grow up in wickedness, they shall put their hands to their noses and vex him in wrath, and his wife shall kick him out of bed. Selah!

A NEW USE FOR PAPER.—A new process has been discovered, by which paper can, by chemical and mechanical influences, be rendered as hard as hickory wood, and may be manufactured into a variety of articles hitherto made of wood, tin, copper and iron. The substance produced is a non-conductor of heat, impervious to the action of acids, and not liable to be injured by heat or cold. It can bear a heat of three hundred Farhenheit without injury. When the preparation is soft it is shaped in moulds, and made into water-pails, wash-basins, pitchers, &c. When further improvements are made articles formed of paper will come into competition with crockery and china. The White House and the Departments in Washington have been already supplied with sets of paper water-pails, ice-coolers and spittoons. A factory at Greenpoint, L. I., is now engaged in developing the process, which of course is a secret.

A CORRESPONDENT sends us a pretty good story, he vouches for as having occurred in a Methodist church, in Butler county, the other day, during the progress of a revival. A newly-married couple was in attendance, and during the exercises, owing to the closeness of the room and the prevailing excitement, the bride fainted away. Intense excitement followed in that part of the room where the fainting woman lay supported in the arms of her devoted husband. At this crisis, an old gentleman, noted for his antipathy to tight lacing, general hardness of heart, and a bad habit of stuttering, cried out at the top of his voice to the distressed husband, "A-a-a-ron, 'damn it, m-man, take out your knife, and c-c-cut her lacers!" A general roar of laughter followed, even from the most sedate, but the new-made husband adopted the prescription on the instant, and with success.—Pittsburgh Leader.

HOW TO KEEP EGGS FRESH FOR TWO YEARS.—Le Betier (a Parisian paper) recommends the following method for the preservation of eggs: Dissolve four ounces of beeswax in eight ounces of warm olive oil, and in this put the tip of the finger and annoint the egg all around. CAMBRIA FREEMAN.

EBENSBURG, PA.,
THURSDAY, : : : OCT. 31, 1867.

Gov. Geary and Fort Delaware.

The present Executive of this State has recently furnished conclusive evidence that he is fully capable of sounding all the depths and shoals of political infamy.

Fort Delaware belongs to the government of the United States, and is situated a short distance below Philadelphia. It is garrisoned by soldiers of the regular army, who were not in service under a requisition from the President, nor were they there by any authority of this Commonwealth. This fact was just as well known to Gov. Geary as it was to any man in Pennsylvania who has ever read the Act of Assembly passed in 1864, which confers upon citizens of this State who are in the service of United States the right to vote. It seems to be beyond controversy that on the 5th day of October, just three days before the recent election, Gov. Geary issued a commission under his hand and the seal of the Commonwealth, directed to one Henry Mitchell of Philadelphia county, to take the votes of Pennsylvania soldiers at Fort Delaware, by virtue of the Act of August 21st, 1864. The first section of that Act is as follows:

"That whenever any of the qualified electors of this Commonwealth shall be in any actual military service, under a requisition from the President of the United States or by the authority of this Commonwealth, and as such absent from their place of residence," &c., &c., "such electors shall be entitled at such times to exercise the right of suffrage."

Will any man of common honesty, to say nothing of common sense, pretend for one moment that, under the plain provisions of this section, the soldiers of the United States army stationed at Fort Delaware were legally entitled to vote at our late election? No man outside of a lunatic asylum would maintain so monstrous and absurd a proposition. And yet Gov. Geary sent his willing tool, Henry Mitchell, to take that vote in plain and manifest violation of law, although the commanding officer of the Fort informed Mitchell that there were no Pennsylvania soldiers there who were entitled to vote, yet Mitchell persisted in taking the vote and returned five for Sharswood and one hundred and thirteen for Williams. And they were actually counted by the Return Judge of Philadelphia county. It is as gross and palpable a violation of the election law as was ever perpetrated.

If Geary is so ignorant as not to understand the law he is unfit for the position he holds, but if his intention was to abuse and pervert the law, then he deserves exposure and punishment. That such was his design is evident, and we trust that this outrage on the election franchise will be thoroughly investigated, and that his Excellency will be held up to the scorn and contempt of an outraged people.

How deeply humiliating it is to see the highest Executive office in the Commonwealth filled, to use the language of Thaddeus Stevens, by such a "miserable failure" as John W. Geary. If he possesses a single qualification for the office of Governor it has yet to be discovered, and before his term of office expires he will be regarded by common consent as the weakest as well as the most faithless incumbent who ever occupied that position. Pigmies, though perched on Alps, are pigmies still.

The Radicals and the Philadelphia Elections.

Although the Democratic candidates for city officers were elected by large majorities in Philadelphia, yet the leaders of the "God and morality" party have commenced proceedings to contest their seats. It is a rule of action with the Radicals that no man in this country has a right to hold office unless he swears by their faith. In Congress Voorhies of Indiana, Brooks of New York and Baldwin of Michigan were deprived of their seats, not because they had not a clear majority of legal votes in their respective districts, but simply because they were Democrats and opposed to Radical misrule. For the same reason John F. Stockton, of New Jersey, was turned out of his seat in the United States Senate. The late election having deprived them of a great portion of their power and patronage in Philadelphia, they now design to treat the election as if it had not taken place, retain their friends of the loyal League in power, and thus defeat the clearly expressed will of the people. We have too much faith in the purity and integrity of the Courts of that city to suppose that they will succeed.

It was at one time proposed by a Radical editor that the Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee should take the necessary steps to contest the election of George Sharswood. We imagine, however, that Francis Jordan will think twice before he attempts to inaugurate another Buckshot war in Pennsylvania.

THE election in Virginia the other day for delegates to a State Convention to [illegible]itution, resulted in the [illegible]ay and sixty

The Elections Next Week.

On next Tuesday, Nov. 5th, elections will be held in Massachusetts for Governor and members of the Legislature; in New York for a full State ticket (except Governor) and members of the Legislature; in Wisconsin and Minnesota for Governor and Legislature; in Kansas for and against negro suffrage and for and against that other monstrosity, female suffrage; and in New Jersey for members of the Legislature and for and against negro suffrage. It is always unsafe to speak positively as to the result of a pending election, but we hazard this prediction: The Democrats will carry New York, and negro suffrage will be defeated in New Jersey, and probably in Kansas. If the Republican ticket is not defeated in Wisconsin there will be some terrible Democratic thunder in that State, and possibly a Democratic victory.

WHISTLING TO KEEP ITS COURAGE UP.—The Johnstown Tribune, which announced the election of Williams after it was known to every man who reads that he was defeated, which declared that Beck was elected State Senator over Wingard, in the Lycoming district, by only 5 of a majority when it was a fact patent to every one that his majority was 367, and which made Woodward's majority only 178 when it was 611, is still whistling to keep its courage up. Last week it announced the election of Merrill as Governor of Iowa by 25,000, and that "Iowa thus adds 10,000 to the Republican majority." In view of the fact that the Republicans carried that State last year by 35,412, and have not probably done it this year by much over 20,000, even charity forbids the presumption that our neighbor was ignorant of the true facts when he made the above erroneous statement.

JOHN A. LOGAN, of Illinois, who was a rabid secessionist when the war broke out, stumped the State of Ohio, during the late canvass, in favor of negro suffrage, and received six thousand dollars for his services from the Republican State Committee.—The people of Ohio defeated Logan's negro equality doctrine by an overwhelming majority. He is now in New Jersey making speeches in favor of the same proposition, and judging from his want of success in Ohio, it is fair to presume that the "Jersey Blues" will repudiate him by at least ten thousand majority.

ANOTHER NEGRO OUTRAGE.—We were informed last evening, by two respectable gentleman from Littlestown, Adams county, that on Sunday last, a young white girl named Groft, about sixteen years of age, residing near that village, was assaulted by a negro, who pinioned her arms, placed a gag in her mouth, and then forcibly violated her person. This diabolical deed was committed in the house in which the girl lived, during the absence of the family. The black fiend fled, but was subsequently captured and taken before a Radical justice of the peace, who offered to release him on five hundred dollars bail. This could not be obtained, and the negro was placed in the custody of a constable to be taken to the county prison. On their way to Gettysburg, the prisoner managed to escape, and is still at large. His victim was very much injured, and has been in a suffering condition ever since. The scoundrel ought to have been lynched on the spot by the people of Littlestown.—Harrisburg Patriot & Union, 26th.

A GOOD, BUT VERY OLD TRICK.—The Radicals, just now, in their hot haste to nominate General Grant for the Presidency, remind us very much of the old times, when the slave trade was carried on pretty briskly between the coast of Africa and this continent. The Republican ship, freighted with the negro, has been overtaken by the fast sailing clipper Public Opinion, and finding that it will be impossible to reach a haven within the next ten or twenty years, the pilot of the Republican has piped all hands to throw the nigro ov'board! The only question yet to be solved is, whether the commanders and crew of the "ill-freighted" vessel won't have to go overboard also; for the huge barnacles of corruption clinging to her are sufficiently heavy to drag out every plank from her hull.—Sunday Mercury.

IN ALABAMA the Radicals bought the votes of thousands of negroes with slips of paper which they called land-warrants—a printed promise to furnish the holder with a forty-acre lot and a mule after the election. A number of negroes, in a hurry for their reward, brought their "warrants" into Columbus, the other day, and offered them at a discount for ready cash. This is but one of the many infamous schemes of the Radicals to secure supremacy for themselves. It will be strange, indeed, if a blighting curse does not speedily strike them. If there is a God of power and justice, such gross wickedness cannot go long unpunished.—Patriot and Union.

TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS A YEAR.—How do the tax-payers like to pay two hundred million dollars a year for the support of Freedman's Bureaus and Southern Military Governments? That is what it costs to Africanize the Southern States, and arrange for sending negroes to Congress. How do Northern laboring men like to be taxed to buy clothes and food for the lazy blacks of the South? This is the penalty imposed for sustaining the Rump Congress. How do you like it?

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

—The election in "West Virginia" has resulted in large gains for the Democracy.

—Juarez has been elected President of Mexico, on the Radical plan—fraud and bayonets.

—A colored man in Little Rock, Arkansas, killed fifty-one rattlesnakes in an hour, near that town a few days ago.

—John Quincy Adams is the Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, and John Quincy Adams is the Republican candidate for Police Justice of Brooklyn, N. Y.

—McDougal, a horse thief, with irons on, leaped from a car window, near Carmel, on the Maine Central Railroad, and escaped. The train was running fifteen miles an hour at the time.

—The municipal authorities of Harrisburg, Pa., offer a reward of $1000 for the detection and conviction of the ruffian who so shockingly outraged a Miss Sevier of that city on Wednesday evening last.

—By the elections this fall the Democrats gain three United States Senators in the next Congress—in California, Ohio and Connecticut—but this "is of no consequence," we are told by the Radicals.

—The New Albany (Indiana) Court lately granted a divorce to a man named Banks, on the ground that his wife was a victim to kl pemania—an irresistible desire to stea'. Why not call it Radicalism?

—Miss Mary Davis, of Petersburg, Virginia, aged about twenty-five years, died on Tuesday last from excessive corpulency. She had been confined to her bed nearly nine months, and was utterly helpless.

—Aaron Hurt, the Conservative negro orator of Columbus, was tarred and feathered in Savannah on Thursday, by six Radical negroes. Will we hear of this outrage in the Tribune, or "my two papers, both daily"?

—Sixty days ago Cheyenne, Dakotah, was a howling wilderness; now it has a Mayor and Common Council, publishes ordinances regulating city life, and has a newspaper, rum shops, and various other incidents of civilization.

—A lady remarked that, after reading of the proceedings of Mrs. Lincoln in the matter of her wardrobe and jewelry, she thought that even the Democrats would not deny that the husband of such a woman was "Our Martyr President."

—Rev. Father Murphy, of Portsmouth, was invited to offer the prayer at the opening of the Supreme Court, in Portsmouth, N. H., on Tuesday. This is probably the first instance in the State where a Catholic priest has been thus recognized.

—The church in which General Washington was married to Martha Custis, in New Kent County, Virginia, is very much dilapidated, and its congregation too poor to repair it. Contributions are therefore solicited to aid in preserving this historical relic.

—The President of the United States has recommended Thursday, November 28, to be observed "throughout the Republic as a day of national thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty Ruler of nations" for all His goodness and loving kindness during the year.

—An elm tree at Hampden, Ohio, furnished seven thousand feet of inch boards, clear stuff. The tree was six feet ten inches in diameter, and weighed sixty thousand pounds. The concentric circles, which are said to indicate one year each, numbered seven hundred and ninety-two.

—A prairie fire on the 7th instant, swept into the government stockyard at Fort Ranson, Dakotah, and destroyed all the government hay. The same fire ran into a half-breed camp and burned ten half-breeds to death, and ten more were so badly burned that their lives are despaired of.

—Returns from thirty-four counties in California render it certain that both Sprague and Fitzgerald, the Democratic candidates for Judges, are chosen by handsome majorities. The Radicals have not redeemed the State, as they said they would, after the contest for Governor resulted in their defeat.

—Seven years ago a St. Louis merchant caught a burglar in his chamber, but let him go on promise of good behavior. The burglar made his pile during the war, whereas the merchant failed, and a few days ago the former paid his debt of gratitude by loaning the latter $10,000 with which to start in business again.

—Near Sherman, Texas, recently, Mrs. Beatty, a widow lady, met her death in a most singular manner. She was in the act of getting on a horse, when a common sewing needle, which stuck in her dress, caught in the saddle and was driven in her body near her breast, slightly piercing her heart. She lived only about half an hour.

—A Democrat of Ohio came all the way from Chili, in South America, to vote at the recent election. That is the right kind of a Democrat. He deserves to be held up as a model, and his patriotic zeal should be imitated by every one of the sluggards who allowed themselves to be kept away from the polls at the recent elections.

—At Mason village, N. H., while some small children were at play, an immense golden eagle attacked one of them. A woman ran from the house with a broom, when the eagle let go the child and attacked her with ferocity. At this moment a man gunning in the vicinity came to the rescue and shot the eagle, breaking a wing, and captured him. He is the largest bird seen within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

—An Ohio Democrat got even with a Radical, who was feebly crowing over the meagre majority for Governor, by informing him that they could have that officer, as nearly his whole business was to pardon men out of the penitentiary, and that the Radicals had much more need of his services than the Democrats. The Governor of Ohio has no veto, and in gaining the Legislature, the Democracy

—The election of the blackguard Brownlow to the United States Senate will not necessarily cause a vacancy in the Gubernatorial office of Tennessee. Brownlow intends to continue as Governor until the commencement of the term for which he has been elected Senator on the 4th of March, 1869, when according to the terms of the bogus Tennessee coustitution, he will be succeeded by De Witt Clinton, President of the State Senate, who is likewise a Rad,

—Richard McGrann, a prominent railroad contractor, died at his residence in Lancaster on Tuesday, in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He was for years one of the largest and most noted railroad and bridge contractors in Pennsylvania. He had large contracts on the old State railroads, on the Pennsylvania Central, the Northern Central and various others. He was one of the contractors by whom the beautiful Chestnut street bridge of Philadelphia was built, and had at the time of his death a contract to build a large railroad bridge near Easton.

—Near Wooster, Ohio, a boy aged nine years went out to the barn to make a bed for a sow with pigs, and in doing so the animal attacked him ferociously, injuring him almost fatally. He was fearfully bitten and mangled in the knee, legs and arms and his right arm, below the elbow, literally "chawed up," the bones munched to pieces, leaving the arm hanging by the flesh alone. He managed, however, to escape, and went to the house. Physicians amputated the arm, at last accounts he was doing finely.

—Conflicting testimony as to the ownership of a cow, in Ohio, led the judge to adopt a singular method of deciding the question. The court adjourned to a field where the cow was. The man claimant then tried all his persuasive powers, but the cow would not recognize him. Then the woman called "Polly!" and the intelligent animal scattered the crowd that surrounded her and broke for the woman, where she rubbed her nose against her mistress, overjoyed to find her. The justice decided that the cow was hers.

LITERARY SUMMARY.

Petersons' Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector.—This periodical, which is a regular safeguard in Banks, Offices, Counting-houses and Stores, is issued on the 1st and 15th of each month, and has become a necessity to all business men. Some few people think that a Detectar is not of any use now, as we have nearly all National Bank currency. This is a great mistake, as to-day there are more counterfeits, and broken bank notes in circulation than there ever was; so you see that Petersons' Defector is actually a greater necessity to all Bankers, Merchant and Storekeepers, and we would advise all our readers to subscribe to it at once.

Terms of subscription to Petersons' Counterfeit Detector, corrected by Drexel & Co., Bankers, is, for the Monthly issue, (per annum) $1.50; Semi monthly (per annum) $3.00; single numbers, 15 cents. To agents, $10 a hundred net cash. Subscriptions may commence with any month, and are payable in advance. Address T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Especially Elaborate and Intgresting—The Phrenological Journal for November—containing fine Portraits, with accurate Biographies, of General Samuel R. Curtis; George Brown, D. D.; Thomas H. Stockton D. D.; W. Collier, D. D.; R. Hanks, D. D.; Z. Ragan, D. D.; A. H. Bassett; C. Springer; John Scott, D. D.; W. Reeves, D. D.; Alexander Clark, A. M.; H. R. Knight, A. M; Joseph J. Smith, A. M.; D. B. Dorsey, M. D: Jeremiah Day, D. D., LL.D; Jas. P. Beckwourth, of Rocky Mountain fame; Julia Dean; and original articles on Matrimony among Authors; Education of the Heart, by Hon. Scuyler Colfax; Saints and Sinners, Who are they? Thanksgiving Day; How to save Money; Who shall rule over us? etc. Only 30 cents, or $3 a year. Address S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

The Catholic World.—The November number of this truly able and admirably conducted magazine has been with us for several days, and we have already enjoyed the pleasure and profit of perusing several of the articles contained in it. To the patriotic reader, no matter what his faith, the "Unpublished Letters of Gen. Washington," given in the present number, are alone worth the price of the book, while its entire contents will be found of the most interesting and instructive character. Father Hecker, the well-beloved Redemptionist missionary, is the editor of this unsurpassable periodical, which is issued from the Catholic Publication House, New York, at $5 per year. No man of fine literary taste, and especially no Catholic of culture, should be without this magazine.

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly.—The current number of this favorite periodical is a very good one. In addition to its usual illustrations, including the colored fashion plate, there are three large plates devoted to fashions, and another feature of special interest to ladies, viz: a full size pattern of Winter cloak. The special departments are not neglected, and there is the usual variety of excellent reading matter, stories, poems, etc. This is the best and most useful of the parlor magazines, and no family can afford to do without it. Subscription price, $3 yearly, with valuable premium. Address, W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York.

The Pittsburgh Republic.—We neglected to notice at an earlier day the issuing of a large eight paged Sunday edition of this sprightly and ably edited daily newspaper. We have many exchanges on our list which we highly prize, but none of them excel in the matter of news or choice miscellany this weekly edition of our spirited little cotemporary. The Republic is a conservative paper, and deserves to be well sustained. The weekly is only $2 per year.

$75 WANTED—Agents to sell the best low-priced Sewing Machine $200 ever made—either by the month, or on commission. Our machine will sew, hem, fell, tuck, bind and embroider equal to a high-priced machine. Cut any third stitch, and the goods will tear before the seam will give out. From $75 to $200 per month, expenses paid. Address—BAKER SEWING MACHINE CO., Cleveland, O.

STRAY COW.—Came to the premises of the subscriber, residing in Carroll township, Cambria county, about the 1st of August last, a DARK BRINDLE COW, apparently between 7 and 8 years of age, having short crooked horns and several white spots on its body. The owner is requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges and take her away, otherwise

CAMBRIA COUNTY, SS.: The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to Margaret Krise, (widow of Henry Krise, dec'd,) John J. Krise, Bridget McDade, (formerly Bridget Krise,) Margaret Delozier, (formerly Margaret Krise,) and Wm. G. Krise, and Ellen Carle, intermarried with Luke Myers, and Henry Carle, children of Ellen, who was intermarried with Lewis Carle, a daughter of the said Henry Krise, dec'd, and Michael McDermitt, Charles V. McDermitt, John C. McDermitt and James P. McDermitt, children of Annie Krise, a daughter of said Henry Krise, who was intermarried with Henry McDermitt, (the said Charles V. McDermitt, John C. McDermitt and James P. McDermitt being minors and having no guardian,) heirs and legal representatives of the said Henry Krise, deceased, late of Clearfield township: You and every of you are hereby cited to appear before the Judges of the Orphans' Court, to be held at Ebensburg on the first Monday of December next, there to accept or refuse to take the real estate of said Henry Krise, dec'd, situate in Clearfield township, and which has been valued and appraised by an Inquest awarded by the said Court and returned to the Sheriff of said county, on the 2d day of September, A. D. 1867, at the sum of twenty-five dollars and twenty cents per acre. Herein fail not.

Witness the Hon. George Taylor, President Judge of our said Court, at Ebensburg the 2d day of September, A. D. 1867.

THE FIRE FIEND IN EBENSBURG—Four conflagrations in Three Days.—Our town during the past week has been pretty severely scourged by the devouring element, no less than four fires having occurred in the same locality within less than three days of each other of them, in fact, within twelve or fifteen hours of each other. Two of these conflagrations resulted in considerable loss, and it is less a cause of wonder that the properties in question were destroyed than that those surrounding and in the immediate neighborhood were saved from a like fate. Only the favorable condition of the weather and the almost superhuman efforts of our citizens served to stay the destroying element and confine it within the comparatively small limits which it laid waste.

The first of these fires broke out on Thursday afternoon last, and for a time threatened the most serious consequences. Thomas Orr, son of Mr. Edward Glass, while in the eastern department of his father's foundry, at the west end of town, at the time stated, cast his eyes towards the roof and to his horror discovered fire between the shingles and the boards which line the roof. Without delay he gave the alarm, which soon spread through the streets, and in a very short time a large concourse of people were upon the ground with buckets and other tools, and all went to work with a will carrying water, and in a few minutes the flames were completely subdued, after burning a large hole in the roof and charring several valuable patterns which were stowed away under the eaves. This fire was doubtless communicated from a spark thrown from the cupolo, the workmen having been engaged in casting a short time previous to its discovery.

On Saturday afternoon about half past two o'clock our citizens were again startled by the cry of fire, and this time it was discovered issuing from the stable of F. P. Tierney, Esq. who resides in the next house adjoining the foundry property. From Mr. Tierney's stable the flames communicated to the stables of Mr. John Griffith and Mr. Isaac Evans, in close proximity, and by the time an effective force of workmen reached the scene the three buildings were so completely enwrapped that it were worse than useless to attempt to save either of them. All efforts, therefore, were directed to the preservation of the houses and other buildings in the immediate vicinity, and it required the most heroic exertions and untiring industry to accomplish this almost hopeless task. Lines were promptly formed and water rapidly passed from the tannery of Mr. Evans on the opposite side of the street, and under the direction of skillful firemen the water was applied in such a way as to effect the desired object, although it was a matter of doubt for fully an hour as to which of the elements, fire or water, would prove the victor. The origin of this fire is altogether a matter of conjecture, and we shall not attempt to advance any hypothesis on the subject. We did not learn the amount of loss sustained by the respective owners of the stables, but understand that Mr. Griffith is much the heaviest loser, two of the structures having been filled with hay, chop, etc., belonging to him. Mr. Tierney, warned by the late fire at the foundry, had his house, furniture and stable insured just the day previous, and we trust that the insurance on the latter building will fully cover the damage. We do not know whether the other parties were insured or not.

Scarcely had this fire been rendered harmless for further mischief and the greater portion of the citizens returned to their homes and places of business, than still another cry of fire resounded through our streets, and this time flames were seen emerging from the roof of Mr. Wm. Mills' house, the next but one below the burnt district. A few buckets of water, properly applied, sufficed to quench this fire ere it had accomplished much damage. The most plausible theory as to its origin, is that some of the sparks from the burning stables had got into a barrel of rags on the garret, and after smouldering for a time burst forth into a flame, which communicated to the roof, with the result stated above. The efforts of several persons who still lingered about the scene of the other conflagration alone served to suppress this fire before it got under full headway.

It was now reasonable to suppose that no further apprehensions need be entertained as to this terrible agent of destruction, although several persons remained on watch during the night to guard against any disaster of a like character. How startling then was the summons, at about five o'clock on Sunday morning, which called our citizens from their beds to witness the burning of still another building in the same locality, and occupied as a weaver's shop by Mr. John Williams. This building, a small one and a half story frame, was quickly wrapped in flames beyond the control of human efforts, and as in the case of the stables, all attention was turned to the saving of other tenements surrounding it. And what superhuman exertions were required to accomplish this work only those who labored with might and main can properly estimate. But, all honor to the noble men who faced the scorching heat, the good work was done, notwithstanding one end of Mr. Mills' house was little better than a mass of cinder, from top to bottom when the fire was finally subdued. And then the question naturally arose, how did this fire occur? There had been no fire about the shop from which it could have been communicated, and it was thought scarcely possible that embers from the other fires had found lodgment in or about the building, and lay dormant so long without revealing their presence. On the heels of this question came the announcement that a couple of men were seen prowling about the vicinity and acting very suspiciously after the fire had broke out, and the conviction settled in the minds of not a few that they had set the building on fire, and more still account for their conduct in other ways. Be this as it may, the destruction was complete, and the loss has fallen upon persons who were ill able to bear it. The building was owned by Mr. Mills, upon which he had no insurance. Mr. Williams, who occupied it, and who is a poor and industrious mechanic, lost his loom and everything else pertaining to his business, while several of our citizens came out minus carpet chain and rags, which had been put out to weave, and suffered more or less peeling. It is a somewhat singular coincidence in connection with Mr. Williams' loss, that he had the misfortune, just one year previously to the day and almost to the hour, to have his dwelling in Gaysport, Blair co., destroyed by a similar catastrophe.

And what shall we say for those who labored so zealously and unwearily in preserving their neighbors' property from the devouring element? We feel that words of praise would add nothing to the satisfaction they feel in the accomplishment of a good act well done, although their efforts were beyond all praise. Especially did Mr. Wm. Day and Mr. Alex. Eckels labor with the most praiseworthy efficiency at all the fires, ever occupying the most dangerous and exposed positions, and always directing their efforts to the accomplishment of the greatest good.

Nor need we indulge in a word of warning or advice at this time. These conflagrations should teach their own lesson, and we trust that the next disaster will not find our town so illy prepared to combat the fiery element.

EDITORIALITIES, LOCAL AND GENERAL.—The wife of Wm. Bear, of Ligonier, Indiana county, was caught by her clothes in the shaft of a steam mill at that place, not long since, and very seriously injured.

A six year old lad named Robert Chester fell into the Kishacoquillas at Lewistown, on Monday afternoon of last week, and was drowned. His body was found the same day.

The barn of Jacob Shallis, in Somerset county, together with a lot of rye, hay and oats, was consumed by fire on Friday week. Careless boys and lucifer matches did the business.

Milton Howe, a young man belonging to Gaysport, fell from a scaffold at Gallitzin, this county, on Monday week, a distance of forty-two feet, but fortunately escaped with a few slight bruises.

Jacob Marchand, of North Huntingdon township, Westmoreland county, died a couple of weeks since from the effects of an overdose of landanum which he had taken for medical purposes.

The Hollidaysburg Radical and Whig has learned by telegraph of the death of Lt. John W. Hicks, U. S. Infantry, formerly of Duncansville, who died at Natchez, Miss., on the 22d inst., of cholera.

In speaking of the probable nomination of Gen. Grant by the Radicals, one of our contemporaries says that that distinguished officer never opens his mouth but he puts his foot in it. A very large mouth or an exceedingly small foot.

On Friday morning the engine of a freight train struck a colored woman named Emma Lewis, at Middletown, and knocked her down an embankment. She was seriously but not fatally injured. The accident was the result of her carelessness.

Henry Bowers, a brakesman on the Pennsylvania railroad, met with a fatal accident on Friday night, at Irwin's Station. In the pursuit of his duties he had to couple an engine to a freight train, in doing which he was caught between the two, and so badly crushed that death ensued in a few moments. He leaves a wife and several children in Pittsburgh.

The vault of the Prothonotary's office in the Court House at Hollidaysburg was forcibly entered by burglars on Wednesday night last, who helped themselves to $1,000 in government bonds, ($5.00 of which belonged to the Prothonotary, Mr. Baldridge, and the other $500 to his son, and a $100 compound interest note belonging to another party. The villains made a hole through the thick wall, through which they entered. No clue has been gained to the thieves.

About six o'clock Friday evening James Smith, a citizen of Greensburg, was walking on the track of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the Tunnel, a half mile east of the town, when he heard a train approaching, and in the endeavor to get out of the way he slipped and fell with his head in such a position that it was struck by the cow-catcher, and the scalp knocked off. He was rendered insensible by the concussion, in which conditon he remained for several hours, when he was discovered by the watchman of the Tunnel, who had him conveyed to Greensburg, where he at present lies. His recovery is considered doubtful.

POOR HOUSE APPOINTMENTS.—The new Board of Poor House Directors, consisting of Messrs. Joseph Daily and Henry Byrne, of the former Board, and Mr. John D. Thomas the newly-elected Director, met at the Poor House on Monday last, and after rescinding the appointments made at the last meeting of the old Board, selected the following gentlemen for the positions named:

Steward—Col. B. McDermitt.
Treasurer—Geo. W. Oatman, Esq.
Attending Physician—Dr. R. S. Bunn.

It is casting no reflection on the late appointees to say that the gentlemen named above are competent and trustworthy, and we doubt not they will render general satisfaction in their respective positions. The Directors were most kindly treated during their visit to the Poor House by the present acting Steward, Mr. Kaylor, who did everything to render their intercourse pleasant and agreeable. The latter gentleman will retain his position until January.

MORE INCENDIARISM.—Another bold and successful attempt has been made to destroy property in the neighborhood of our town. On Sunday evening last, just after dark, the attention of Mr. Abram Meakin and family, who reside in Cambria township, a few miles from Ebensburg, was directed to a pile of wood near their residence, to which fire had been communicated by some dastardly villains, and while Mr. M. and his household were endeavoring to save the wood, a stable on the premises containing hay, etc., was set on fire and with its contents destroyed. During the excitement consequent upon this fire the incendiaries entered the house of Mr. David Powell, a short distance from the scene, for the purpose of robbing it, but were fortunately alarmed before they had succeeded in securing anything of much value. They were seen leaving the house, but made good their escape in the darkness. There were two of them—a tall man and one of small stature.

CAME TO HAND.—Our young friend, Geo. Yeager, of Altoona, has taken our hint about a toot horn or tin whistle for our boy, in its literal and broadest sense, and has not only sent the aforesaid juvenile a horn, whistle and rattle, but has also kindly bestowed upon ourself a horn of larger dimensions, which he requests us to dedicate to the blowing of the Rads. up Salt River. As we do our blowing through the Freeman, and as our boy is past the age for rattles and diminutive horns, we have delivered into his possession the larger horn, and sent to a newly married friend the balance of the music, who, we trust, will find use for them in due course of time. We hope our friend George will be satisfied with the disposition we have made of the articles.

FIRE IN ALTOONA.—We understand that a very destructive fire occurred in Altoona on Monday afternoon last, by which some five or six business houses and one or two stables in a central portion of the town were IMPORTANT LIBEL SUIT.—As a matter of interest to many of our readers we give place to the following account of a libel suit copied from the Philadelphia Sunday Mercury of the 20th inst., in which Mr. J. H. Davis, formerly a resident of our town, but at present an extensive lumber merchant in the "City of Brotherly Love," figures as plaintiff. His clerical assailant seems to have forgot not only his position but the common civilities of life, as his tirade manifests neither "brotherly love" nor christian charity, and gave just grounds to Mr. D. for the proceedings he inaugurated.

WHAT CONSTITUTES LIBEL.—A Minister Convicted in the Quarter Sessions.—Ministers of the Gospel are as apt to get into trouble as any one; and a libel case, tried in the Quarter Sessions, last week, fully establishes the fact that there are, in our midst, men professing Christianity under cover of being preachers, when in truth, they are hypocrites, and as sinful as sin can make them. The case we have reference to is that of the Rev. J. L. Richards, of the Welsh Congregational Church, Twelfth and Filbert streets, charged with libelling Mr. J. H. Davis, Treasurer of the church, in a letter, written by him in the Welsh language. A written interpetration of the letter was submitted in Court on Friday, and from it we present our readers with that part of it said to be libellous.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24, 1867.

Mr. J. H. Davis—Sir: I was on board the sailing vessel Wolfoille; I understood you had been there recently, acting the part of a graceless traitor, without shame. You thought you could harm me by pouring your lies on the minds of strangers. Why did you not inform them of your own dishonesty and stealing? You knew more about that than you knew of my reputation or of any one that belongs to me. If you are bound to go around to say anything, tell them of that man that swindles churches out of their money and became rich through the labor of his superiors; that he accomplished the meanest things imaginable in business; the man that is fond of drunkenness; a religious man, at the same time breaking the Sabbath in the most disgraceful manner; tell them of the man that receives preachers at his house, so that he may have a shadow of excuse to blacken their reputation; tell them that you are fond of carrying fictitious letters, full of the meanest lies that an eye ever witnessed, and fond of persuading people that they are genuine; tell them your greatest pleasure is to have poor people to select you as treasurer, so that you can have an opportunity to swindle. "It is poor care the devil will take of his servant," is an old Welsh proverb, and that you will see before long.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

I do not understand what you gain by selling body and soul to the devil; the amount is little more than Judas got, for what 'profiteth a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul." If a soul was to be measured according to its knowledge, yours would not be worth much.

* * * * * * *

I have seen some mocking you while yeff were uttering sham prayers, after I came here; not you alone, but the other two likewise. Is it old whiskey barrels and lager beer tubs and swindlers and black legs, that the Lord desires to worship him? Do not be deceived, the Lord is not mocked. "What a man soweth that shall he also reap." * *

Not being satisfied, however, with giving the Treasurer the benefit of his clerical wrath, in the letter written by him, Richards, it is alleged, kept a copy of the same and exhibited it to several members of his church, with the intention of ruining the character of his victim. The evidence elicited before the jury was sufficient to warrant a conviction. In our religious column next week we propose saying something more in regard to this pastor of a flock.

ANOTHER FESTIVAL.—In order to aid in the erection of the handsome new church which our Catholic friends are pushing forward with such commendable enterprise, the ladies of the congregation have made up their minds to hold another festival, similar to the one held last month, during the approaching holidays. A number of valuable articles will be offered for chances, among them the irrepressible little mule and a splendid gold watch, all of which have been donated for the purpose. We hope to throw further light on the subject next week.

IMPORTANT FROM ALTOONA.—Our latest advices from this rapidly growing village at the foot of the hill is to the effect that our enterprising young friend, Billy McDevitt, has stocked the renowned "Green Corner" with a most beautiful, varied and extensive assortment of the choicest dry goods, groceries, notions, etc., that has ever been displayed upon his shelves. So he is now ready to attend to all who seek attractive bargains.

A FINE ESTABLISHMENT.—Cham. Roberts has his new stock of fancy goods, clocks, etc., most temptingly displayed in his newly enlarged store room, and can now rest content in the possession of the neatest establishment for its size and the best variety of goods in his line in the county. His store is well worth a visit and his assortment well worth the attention of purchasers.

FIRES and weddings, serenades and squabbles have tended to make the past week one of intense excitement in our town, and for the time being probably some of our citizens have lost sight of the fact that J. M. Thompson's cheap store on High street is the great emporium for the best goods at the lowest prices. Keep this fact in mind and profit by the knowledge.

AFTER being blessed with one of the most delightful Indian summers on record, we are just now experiencing those cold and chilling rains which always precede grim old winter, and which remind us how cozy it would be to place ourself inside one of those splendid suits of seasonable clothing with which V. S. Barker's store on Main street is now so amply stocked.

A BIT OF ADVICE let us give you in words respectful and plain, which we are sure never can grieve you, but will prove to your profit and gain. If you seek for the worth of your money, and we are sure you will ask for no more, buy your dry goods and fresh groceries at Harry Shoemaker's cheap store.

TO-DAY (Thursday) is "Halloween," or the eve of All Saints Day, which is as good a time as any, and perhaps a little better, for visiting the cheap mercantile mart of Mills & Davis, and buying your mother, wife, sister or sweetheart, a fine dress pattern from their ample and handsome stock.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JOHNSTOWN, OCT. 28, 1867.

Dear Freeman—Saturday last was pay day for the employees at the rolling mill, and business of all kinds was in consequence very brisk on that day and evening. Immense quantities of "tanglefoot" was consumed, if we may judge by the number of inebriates who were floating around loose, and the student of human nature could find much to amuse and instruct, and perhaps to disgust, by taking observations of the various stages of "booziness" to be met with on that evening. Here was an individual who had got on just sufficient of a cargo to induce a feeling of hilarity, and who was indulging his vocal powers with the popular refrain, "I won't go home till morning!" which, with a few more drinks, would be literally the case, for accommodations would be furnished him in the "apartments to let." Then comes another a stage further advanced in mild ebriety, who is cutting an irresistibly comic figure by trying to put on the walk and look of a sober man. It is amusing to watch the gyrations incident to a partial drunk of this kind, as the victim makes a bee line for a few steps, then shies off at a tangent, and bracing up suddenly against a friendly fence or curbstone, appears profoundly astonished at his inability to navigate properly. And so the different gradations might be enumerated until we would come to the "dead drunk," with its blank, senseless expression of countenance, indicating that the attributes of the man have been degraded to a level with the brute. Potent is the power of the still, and much moral and social ruin can be traced to the indiscriminate use of intoxicating beverages.

A man named Barnett, an employee of the Mechanical Works, met with a very severe and painful accident last week. He had been engaged with other carpenters in making some repairs to the bridge across the Conemaugh, near the depot, and while assisting to move a heavy stick of timber it accidentally fell upon his foot, crushing it in a terrible manner.

On Saturday last a man named Callahan had one of his fingers taken off and his hand otherwise lacerated by a circular saw at Dunfee's planing mill. He was in the act of ripping a piece of scantling, and his hand slipping, it came in contact with the saw, resulting as stated.

A woman named Moses, who is said to be subject to fits, made a narrow escape from a terrible death one evening last week. She had been walking along the railroad, east of the depot, and it is supposed was taken with a fit, as she was found lying senseless across the track by two gentlemen who were walking down from Conemaugh station. She was taken to a house near by, and a very severe cut was found upon her face, produced, it is supposed, by her head striking the rail in her fall. Restoratives were applied and she was brought to, and word sent to her friends. It was providential that she was found at the time, as the Phila. Express passed within ten minutes after she was picked up, and she would inevitably have met with a horrible death.

Fences and dead walls have received a repapering in this locality, of a pattern representing all kinds of mythical feats on the flying trapeze and impossible displays of daring horsemanship on the backs of imaginary untamed steeds. The title to these elegant illustrations read "Gardner & Hemming's Circus, will exhibit in Johnstown on the 4th day of November."

MARRIED.

HENRY—KITTELL.—On Thursday evening, 24th inst., by Rev. R. C. Christy, Mr. SAMUEL HENRY, Cashier of Lloyd & Co.'s Bank, and Miss MAGGIE, youngest daughter of Wm. Kittell, Esq., all of this place. No cards.

Thrice lucky wight is Samuel,
In winning such a bride—
A fair and fond companion
With heart both true and tried.
May he fondly cherish ever,
With tender love and pride,
And affection's pure emotion,
His "Maggie by his side."

May they prove to one another,
'Mid the joys and cares of life—
He a true and faithful husband,
She a fond and loving wife.
And thus happy be they always,
Free from trouble, care and strife,
Till fleeting time shall bring them
To the purer, better life.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, ST. LOUIS & IRON MOUNTAIN RAILROAD CO.—Seven per cent. interest February and August. These Bonds cover a Road of 91 miles, finished from St. Louis to Pilot Knob, and in first-class order, and an extension of about the same length from Pilot Knob to Belmont, now rapidly constructing, for which the proceeds of these bonds are to be used, making a through route from St. Louis to New Orleans by rail. The earnings of the 91 miles are $600,000 a year; the net profits now are sufficient to pay the interest on the entire amount of bonds, were they all issued. The basis of security is believed to be beyond that of any other bonds now offered. Apply at the office of the Company, No. 43 Wall-st., to H. G. MARQUAND, Vice President, or to CLARK, DODGE & CO., cor. Wall and William-sts., N. Y. City.

THE RICHEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Extract of a Letter from Baron Solomon Rothschild.—PARIS, 8th April, 1864. Rue Fauby, St. Honore.—Will you be kind enough to have forwarded to me here 200 bottles of your Indian Liniment; if you will send at the same time the account, I will forward you the amount through Messrs. Belmont & Co., New York.

Baron Solomon Rothschild having recommended to many of his friends Major LANE'S LINIMENT, and they being desirous to procure it, he should advise him to establish a depot in Paris.

THE INDIAN LINIMENT,

As a relief, ever ready; as a killer of pain, taken inwardly, or outwardly applied, has no equal. For the relief and cure of Rheumatic and Neuralgic Affections, Sprains Bruises, &c, it is unequalled. It is also most efficacious, taken inwardly, in the cure of Cholera, Cramps and Pains in the Stomach, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c, and is without exception the most wonderful Panacea the world affords. No FAMILY should be without it. Every TRAVELER by land or sea should have a bottle. MINERS and FARMERS residing at a distance from physicians should keep it constantly on hand. In case of Accidents and sudden attacks of Stomach Complaints, its value cannot be estimated. Inquire for Major LANE'S INDIAN LINIMENT, and take no other. PRICE 50 Cts. per bottle. For sale at wholesale and retail by Demas Barnes & Co., 21 Park Row, N. Y.; Gale & Robinson, 186 Greenwich-st., N. Y.; F. C. Wells & Co., 192 Fulton-st., N. Y.; Chas. N. Crittenden, 38 6th Ave, N. Y., and by respectable Druggists throughout the world. None genuine unless signed by JOHN THOS. LANE, and countersigned by J. T. LANE & CO., Proprietors, 163 Broadway, N. Y. ☞Send for circular.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED—THE TRUE REMEDY AT LAST DISCOVERED. UPHAM'S FRESH MEAT CURE, prepared from the formula of Prof. Trousseau of Paris, cures Consumption, Lung Diseases, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Marasmus, General Debility, and all morbid conditions of the system dependent on deficiency of vital force. It is pleasant to taste, and a single bottle will convince the most skeptical of its virtue as the great healing remedy of the age. $1 a bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sent by Express. Sold by S. C. UPHAM, No. 25 South Eighth st., Philadelphia, and principal Druggists. Circulars sent free.

A PHYSIOLOGICAL VIEW OF MARRIAGE.—The Cheapest Book ever Published, containing nearly 300 pages and 100 fine plates and engravings of the Anatomy of the Human Organs in a state of Health and Disease, with a treatise on Early Errors and their Deplorable Consequences upon the Mind and Body, with the Author's Plan of Treatment—the only rational and successful mode of Cure, as shown by the report of cases treated! A truthful adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage who entertain doubts of their physical condition. Sent free of postage to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps or currency, by addressing DR. LA CROIX, No. 31 Maiden Lane, Albany, N. Y. The author may be consulted upon any of the diseases upon which his book treats, either personally or by mail. Medicines sent to any part of the world.

LIVE STOCK INSURANCE COMPANY.

CASH CAPITAL $500,000.

We are now prepared to insure LIVE STOCK against both Death and Theft, in this live and reliable Company. Owners of stock have now the opportunity, by insuring with this Company, of obtaining security and remuneration for the loss of their animals in case of DEATH or theft.

OWNERS OF HORSES,

Manufacturers, Farmers, Teamsters, Expressmen, Physicians, and in fact all who are to any extent dependant upon the services of their horses in their daily vocations, should insure in this Company, and thus derive a protection against the loss of their animals, which are in many cases the sole means of support to their owners.

FARM STOCK.

Farmers and others owning cattle should avail themselves of this means of saving the value of their stock, and secure an equivalent for the loss which would otherwise fall heavily upon them in being deprived of their Cattle, by insuring in this, the

PIONEER COMPANY OF AMERICA!

By insuring in this Company you exchange a certainty for an uncertainty. No man can tell whether his animals may not be stolen or die through some unforseen calamity.
